

The Bruise

Damiano David

I wish I was black and blue, I'd hide under your skin
You would think I'm just a bruise but I would be so close to you
I'd make my way up through your veins, I wanna see you fall asleep
I'd break my way into your heart to know what keeps it beating

Darling, lay your head and hold me close
But close ain't close enough
I wanna feel you from the inside
Darling, lay your head and pull me close
Show me all the roads
I wanna feel you from the inside

I'd build a ladder up into your brain to see the world through your eyes
I'd learn all of the things you love and everything that you despise
I tried for days to make you cry, so I could ride on your tear
I'd ride that tear right down your cheek onto your lips and steal a kiss

Darling, lay your head and hold me close
But close ain't close enough
I wanna feel you from the inside
Darling, lay your head and pull me close
Show me all the roads
I wanna feel you from the inside

Ooh, baby, I could love you if you let me
I'd try to hold you but your heart's too heavy
Your eyes talk but your words won't tell me
Won't tell me if you want me too
Ooh, baby, I could love you if you let me
I know you're hurting but your heart's not empty
Your eyes talk but your words won't tell me
Won't tell me if you want me too
Ooh, baby, I could love you if you let me
I'd try to hold you but your heart's too heavy
Your eyes talk but your words won't tell me
Won't tell me if you want me too
Ooh, baby, I could love you if you let me
I know you're hurting but your heart's not empty