

Embrace Me

Dan Bremnes

It's no surprise to me
But the strangest things they bother me
And every now and then I see the world is turning
I cry a lonesome tear, I'm a man who lost his journey
Can you help me, yes you can

It's not ordinary, for a guy like me
To go wandering around, shuffling his feet
Worried about his insecurities
One stop for crazy institutions
I'm worried about my illusions
Let's just stop and think about it

One wrong for a right
Take me tonight

Embrace me, Hold me so close
You know that I want you
Know that I need you
Embrace me, Hold me so close
All that isn't you will disappear

As I entertain the words of the wise
And cries, and the questions of why my
Body's placed here
We all know that the foolish strive
It's unordinary, but it's all I've been
And now I'm in your hands I understand
Let's just stop and think about it

Embrace me, Hold me so close
You know that I want you
Know that I need you
Embrace me, Hold me so close
All that isn't you will disappear

I'm looking for a revolution
I'm looking for a revelation
Just to hear you speak
Just to hear you speak
