

The King

Dan Bremnes

There's a melody I know and it's found it my heart
When I lose control
There's a place I come undone, when I'm tired and out
When I've lost all my hope

Here is the King I come before
This is the place I fall apart
Into You, I lose myself
And through You, I find my home

You're the remedy I know, because I've already been down
All these twisted roads
And every now and then, I look back over my life
To see You are by my side

Here is the King I come before
This is the place I fall apart
Into You, I lose myself
And through You, I find my home

I find my home
I find my home
Yeah, I find my home
I find my home

Here is the King I come before
This is the place I fall apart
Into You, I lose myself
And through You, I find my home

I find my home
Yeah
I find my home
