

Coldblooded

Dan Croll

Are you needing shelter?
'Cause I would offer mine
But I'm in no better place at this point in time
You crashed through the backdoor
Swept me off my feet
Still surveying all the damage while half asleep

I know there's options and I know there's time
But ain't it just a shame it's an uphill climb
Without a warnin' sign?

I didn't know that you could be coldblooded
But you're lettin' it show
All the while you've been so coldblooded
Now you're lettin' me go

And if you need it, sugar
Someone to hear your cry
Then I hope you know that I will be first in line
In time, you may forget me
Not a thought will reside
Just a lonely soul on a couch reclined

I know there's options and I know there's time
But ain't it just a shame it's an uphill climb
Without a warnin' sign?

I didn't know that you could be coldblooded
All the while you've been so coldblooded

I didn't know that you could be coldblooded
But you're lettin' it show
All the while you've been so coldblooded
Now you're lettin' me go
I didn't know that you could be coldblooded
But you're lettin' it show
All the while you've been so coldblooded
Now you're lettin' me go
