Work

Dan Croll

Been a long day, been a long week
I can tell you're tired from the way that you speak
Lookin' at your eyes, there's no one at home
Legs so heavy, alarm still goin'

Hey, do you have to go to work today?
'Cause I hate to lay alone in bed awake
Won't you think about it and stay
Let our bodies waste away?
Hey, do you have to go to work today?

I can tell from here that it's cold outside
You're turnin' that door key against the tide
Over and above, the nine to five week
So come and rest your head on the fine silk sheet

Hey, do you have to go to work today?
'Cause I hate to lay alone in bed awake
Won't you think about it and stay
Let our bodies waste away?
Hey, do you have to go to work today?

Tištěno z pisnicky-akordy.cz

Sponzor: www.srovnavac.cz - vyberte si pojištění online!