

Exiles

Dan Fogelberg

Exiles running from each other
We are exiles, living undercover
Looking for another day to make it all work out
Exiles standing in the shadows
We are exiles, weary of the battles
Looking for another day to make it all work out

You sit there and I sit here
Looking at you used to be like looking in a mirror
But now it's dark, no light reflects
It never ends like one expects

I don't know where we went wrong
If I knew that I'd never had to write this song
But here we stand so far apart
Separate pieces of a broken heart

We live like exiles running from each other
We are exiles, living undercover
Looking for another day to make it all work out
Exiles standing in the shadows
We are exiles, weary of the battles
Looking for another day to make it all work out

You said you need time to think
But I just couldn't go on living on the brink
So now we take this frozen stance
In hopes that we'll find one more chance

Different wants and different needs
Moving through our changes at such different speeds
I don't know why and I don't know when
But somewhere we'll find love again

Exiles running from each other
We are exiles, living undercover
Looking for another day to make it all work out

Exiles running from each other
We are exiles, living undercover
Looking for another day to make it all work out
Exiles standing in the shadows
We are exiles looking for another day to make it all work out
