

Lay Low

Dan Mangan

Everything, all the time, everywhere
What to say, where to go?
Best of times, I'm a little unaware
And who's to say? I don't know

But I feel my head overflow
And I was tired at the get go
I don't want to wait around to fall apart
So I will do my part

Make the social graces
Quick and painless

Lay low, just let the day go
I'm okay in the shadows
Every single party needs a no-show
Why go just to say so?
I'm tired of the same old
So point me the way home
I can breathe on the way home

Now I don't mean to be the quiet sullen type
I've had my day in the sun
Just not today and definitely not tonight
Give my best to everyone

Sometimes I feel my head overflow
When all I need is us alone
'Cause you can always fix me when I fall apart
So let's do our part

Make the social graces
Quick and painless

Lay low, just let the day go
I'm okay in the shadows
Every single party needs a no-show
Why go just to say so?
I'm tired of the same old
So point me the way home
I can breathe on the way home

I can breathe on the way home
Just be on the way home
I can breathe on the way home

So point me the way home
Just let the day go
I'm okay in the shadows
Every single party needs a no-show
Why go just to say so?
I'm tired of the same old
So point me the way home
I can breathe on the way home