

She Can't Help Me Now

Dan Wilson

I always counted on my love to carry me
Always depended on her love to cover me
And I always had someone who let me play the lucky one but

She can't help me now
She can't help me now

She finds the rooftop door and climbs out to clear her head
I've fallen through the floor and my line has gone dead
And I always had someone who let me play the lucky one but

She can't help me now
She can't help me now

I always counted on my love to carry me
But now I can't turn the page standing all alone on the stage

She can't help me now
She can't help me now
