

Paper Thin

Dangerkids

I guess I never found the right time, did I?
To tell you I sorry, I gave up.
But until you're broken
You don't know what you made of.

There's a part of me that you'll never know,
A filthy lie that I'm keeping close.
Cuts at the skin and it's sinking in,
How deep it goes?

There's a piece of you that I'll never see,
Between the lines and found underneath,
Of these calloused eyes, yours and mine,
But it never shows.

I was a broken wreck, lost in noise,
Pull me out and I found my voice,
You told me once and I won't forget.
You don't pull a punch, the fly south effect.

And I'll face it down, not like you,
The only way out is the way through,
So put hands up if you've had enough,
And it's time to choose.

I guess I never found the right time, did I?
To tell you I sorry, I gave up.
But until you're broken
You don't know what you made of.

I feel my heart caving in,
This line I'm walking is paper thin.
And it's hard to hide the scar beneath the skin, skin,
'Cause I've been burned and broke.
And I wanted out, but I'm better now,
And I know I won't be giving in.

Yeah, I can't help the way that I sound,
Or the fact you're not around.
But you told me once before you left,
How to live my life out loud.
You can hide in the dark, but they'll never know you.
Or speak your mind and they'll never own you,
It won't bring you back or the time we had.
But I hope it shows you,
It goes!

We've been waiting
We've been waiting

We've been waiting
You don't know what you made of
We've been waiting
Yeah, go!

From the top of the world,
I can see where the sky breaks.

Until you're lost in the dark,
You don't look for the way!

I guess I never found the right time, did I?
To tell you I sorry, I gave up.
But until you're broken
You don't know what you made of.

I guess I never found the right time, did I?
To tell you I sorry, I gave up.
But until you're broken
You don't know what you made of!
