

The Power of Love

Daniel Johnston

Well, I saw her last night
What a beautiful sight
I couldn't believe I had a chance, at sweet romance

Then it dawned on me
In my reality
With the power of love she had over me

Thinking like heaven on your mind
Then you'll find yourself dreaming in a cloud
Don't you know that love will lift you up
Drinking from its ever lasting cup
As if you had enough
When love has fallen like the and snow
You'll hear her calling, and away you'll go
Where love would lead, you never really know
There's no escape from love's twisted fate
Just make sure she's risen
Just make sure she's risen

Love, like a guilty bastard make
Like a cake you plaster between
The lies and laughter
Love, is what everyone is after
Love, is a drug that's faster
Love, is the one and only master

Well, I'll make it if I can
I'll be her superman
Through hoops of fire with all my imagination

Then I could plainly see
This is my reality
With the power of love she had over me

You could be a superstar in love
Like a million dollars floating in the air
Don't you know that will never stop once it starts
Coming up love just keeps getting stronger all the time
It's the secret of show business, and the cops
It's the tops and it's fine to be the most
It's great art
There's never enough, and it's got to give lots and lots
It comes from Heaven above, and it's guaranteed to please
It's first rate, and you don't have to beg
Just open up your heart and believe
And make sure she's risen
Just make sure she's risen

Love, like a guilty bastard make
Like a cake you plaster between
The lies and laughter
Love, is what everyone is after
Love, is a drug that's faster
Love, is the one and only master
