

Life Between Shadows

Danny Vera

Above the clouds
You see the white and the blue
Whipped cream
Lavender silk
Morning mist
Frozen in time
Leaving white smoke
On a violet skyline

We live a life between shadows
We live a life between shadows
What seemed so distant to me
Has now become real

The color of morning
Still leaves a trace
When night becomes dawn
A hummingbird beat
Keeps you awake
When the blood in your veins
Is finding its way

We live a life between shadows
We live a life between shadows
What seemed so distant to me
Has now become real

A twilight gone without a warning
Like a bullet leaves the gun

We live a life between shadows
We live a life between shadows
What seemed so distant to me
Has now become real