

Maybe Tonight, Maybe Tomorrow

Danny Vera

A picture of you is waiting for me inside my head
It will only appear if I close my eyes and go to bed
Tomorrow morning it will be gone
But I refuse to wait so long

Morning calls and as I look inside my head
There's nothing left only the pain of some beers I've had
Maybe tonight there is a chance
That I'll get a second glance

Maybe tonight, maybe tomorrow if there's a way
I'll get you back inside my head, where you will stay
Maybe tonight, maybe tomorrow if there's a way
I'll get you back inside my head, where you will stay
Where you will stay

Chances grow and chances fade inside of me
The harder I try the faster they fade, not one left to see
Maybe someday I'll get it right
But until then I won't give up the fight

Maybe tonight, maybe tomorrow if there's a way
I'll get you back inside my head, where you will stay
Maybe tonight, maybe tomorrow if there's a way
I'll get you back inside my head, where you will stay
Where you will stay

Just a moment back in time, then
I would take that moment, to hold you once again

Maybe tonight, maybe tomorrow if there's a way
I'll get you back inside my head, where you will stay
Maybe tonight, maybe tomorrow if there's a way
I'll get you back inside my head, where you will stay
Where you will stay