

Like the First Time

Dare

Distant train heading down the line
Where she longs to go
Packed her suitcase so many times
With all the memories she holds

And she stands at the doorway again
As she turns she remembers him when

He held her then for the first time
He loved her then like the first time again

Tried so hard for so many a year
Worked his hands to the bone
He was strong holding back the fears
For their castle, their home

And he stands at the crossroads again
Through the tears he remembers her when

He held her then for the first time
He loved her then, like the first time
He's leaving now for the last time again

And from the shelter in the storm
He felt her heart, a heart of stone

Distant train heading down the line
Where she longs to go

He held her then for the first time
He loved her then, like the first time
He's leaving now for the last time again
