

Remember

Dare

And I remember

I was woken by the silence on that August night
It's funny how those memories come to haunt me now
It's just a distant memory from my broken dreams
Like the rain falling on the silent hills

Now years have been and gone but I held you in my heart
Driven by devotion and my foolish pride
And as I watched my blue skies fade to grey
I remember all the things you used to say

And I remember the days by the river
My first drink by the wall in the old church yard
And I know that's true those years we knew
They take me back to you

Well, now it's ten years later and the tables turned
One by one those clothes we wore they make us smile
And as I watched my blue skies fade to grey
I remember all the things you used to say

And I remember the days by the river
My first kiss by the wall in the old school yard
And I know that is true those years we knew
They take me back to you

Our friends and memories
Softly fading in the misty morn
Years go by so quickly now
Tried our best and still somehow
Somewhere in a dream I had Yeah...
