

I Once Had Wings

Dark Sarah

I once had wings and held a godly string
Among these kings, but oh how did I sin?
I fell from grace and became the one displaced
What happened next I did not expect

They punished me for my sins, burned my wings
You see the scars?
Once they had stolen my wings
I left the king to live in the dark

Let history just tell its tales
Your scars will fade
Another day will break

We all have made a few mistakes
But you have paid them back
With your heartache today

Lost everything just for a small flin
I had nothing and welcomed death to bring
Bring me some guidance I got back my highness
And in the silence I moved to the world's end

I could see all the stars, all the time, cause it was dark
One part of me died when I couldn't fly and then I left the sky

Let history just tell its tales
Your scars will fade
Another day will break

We all have made a few mistakes
But you have paid them back
With your heartache

I am here
Cause I want it all what was taken away from me
I want it all and more!
I know there's a hidden door
I've seen it once before
There lies everything that used to be
All we need is to use your key
I just can't wait to hold it once more

Let history just tell its tales
Your scars will fade
Another day will break

We all have made a few mistakes
But you have paid them back
With your heartache

Your scars will fade!
With your heartache!
Your scars will fade!
