

Identical to None

Dark Tranquillity

You've got to resist
Take it in through osmosis
The narrowing ideas
That nestle in your mind
The gradual absorption
Of tension built through time
Distorted false depictions
Can't stand the test of life

I see a dissonant figure
Rise up

What are you in the eyes of strangers
You are identical to none
Why this disparity of thoughts
When you are identical to none

They want to see it burn
Not deal the final hand
The cleansing ash of others denied
Is on your breath

What should have been said
What should have been done forgotten
What should have been said
What should have been done denied denied

I see a dissonant figure
Rise up

What are you in the eyes of strangers
You are identical to none
Why this disparity of thoughts
When you are identical to none

Borne out of frustration
Of never being seen
The dissonant rise

Why this disparity of thoughts
When you are
Identical to none

What should have been said
What should have been done forgotten forgotten
What should have been said
What should have been done denied denied
What should have been said
What should have been done forgotten forgotten
What should have been said
What should have been done denied denied

What are you in the eyes of strangers
You are identical to none
Why this disparity of thoughts
