Midway Through Infinity

Dark Tranquillity

Wings of fire burn the night Slumbering eyes their flares shall greet Let the past cling on its futile self And may the present rush for the future's glare

Grave to cradle Cradle to grave So infinity clash Grave to cradle

Cradle to grave
In twofold matter

Two forces gone full circle Never shall one of the other grow fond Join me, the time is upon us He spoke and in fury we flew

Far beyond the limits of time
Disown the borders of life itself
Crafted and moulded all in one form
Split up and scattered in the world that we own

Grow towards me
Beknight the strength of the symbiosis
Backwards striving
Counterparts with different eyes have observed
Of time unconditional

Grave to cradle Cradle to grave So infinity clash Grave to cradle Cradle to grave In twofold matter

Tell of days to come Tomorrow remembered Your yesterday, my future

Recollection of the day Delusions cast where dead trees sway

The sabre that separates

Is the candle that burns both ends

Born from death you now confront me Back to death with my life I take you Die more with each movement of mine