

Embrace The Flames

Darkane

Cursed are those who mourn for they shall be discomforted
There is such solace in accepting our demise
Brave are those who venture into this world with hope
As we walk upon this scorched ground, no sign of life is to be found

There is a new wave coming that will engulf us all

Damned are those who seek to escape annihilation
Haunted by fear of incinerating bliss
Obscured is the horizon by the crimson flood
As it closes in on higher ground to wash us all away

There is a new wave coming that will engulf us all
Damned are those who seek to escape annihilation
Haunted by fear of incinerating bliss
Obscured is the horizon by the crimson flood
As it closes in on higher ground to wash us all away

We must prevent evasion and embrace the flames
The thirst is strong, it can never be quenched
Engulfed in fire in anguish drenched

Nothing can save us from ourselves
Nothing can heal these wounds of ours

Cursed are those who mourn for they shall be discomforted
There is such solace in accepting our demise
Obscured is the horizon by the crimson flood
As it closes in on higher ground to wash us all away

We must prevent evasion and embrace the flames
The thirst is strong, it can never be quenched
Engulfed in fire in anguish drenched

We must embrace the flames