

Infinite Eyes

Darkest Hour

I'm waiting for the infinite eyes
But for now I don't see nothing but the blood in the skies
I live in the truck
Release my body into the night
Nothing is sacred, nothing is right
So take me away from this spiteful life

Never leaving, never saying or repeating
You never return, it's never complete
With every light you must fall asleep

Do you realize there're some places you don't want to find?
Do what you want with me tonight
Just take me away from this spiteful life

I'm waiting for the infinite eyes
But for now I don't see nothing but the blood in the skies
I live in the truck
Release my body into the night

Nothing is sacred, nothing is right
So take me away from this spiteful life
Where nothing is sacred, nothing is right

Have you thought what your life will become?
You live or die
You still stay awake
So what did you think?
That you will sink?

I'm waiting for the infinite eyes
But for now I don't see nothing but the blood in the skies
I live in the truck
Release my body into the night
Nothing is sacred, nothing is right
So take me away from this spiteful life
Where nothing is sacred and nothing is right
