

within dead hearts
a bleeding face of pain one voice sounds sobing with horror that grows expired, unsure and sweet doing prayers with decaying souls a miserable play before prayers with stoned hearts lights shimmering veil priest strides up the altar sunken colours move streaming red on her cold lips fear dominates me feel it in my heart

in my soul

burning fever
crush my sweating face realm of death

unforgiveness
burning in my eyes
in my heart

only poison running through my veins over the edge

faint angels watching altars stream of blue eyes vague away silence and shadows sink in myrial spells suds swimming low wretched figures reel into void above my head
strike of blue colours voice dies on the choir incense rising from black plates on a dark bench I sit raising my stare up to the cross high upon high the starving voice