

The Other Side

Darwin Deez

Today I died, was watching from up so high
While the doctors chuckled a lump of me
I saw that light, in the tunnel
But when you cried
I stayed to keep you company
That was dumb of me

Cos now I'm doomed to spend a century
Locked inside a memory, of you
It's all I can do
Hang on till you're through
To the other side

And if I had eyes
Would you still smile, surprised
By the way they seem so green sometimes
And if I had a body to hold (A body to hold)
Would you still want to grow old with me
And be by my side

Or am I doomed to spend a century
Locked inside a memory, of you
It's all I can do
Hang on till you're through
to the other side

Cos it's so hard to be your man
When Death does everything he can
To make me disappear
And it's so hard to hold you close, when I'm a ghost
And your a girl who just won't kiss me or...
How can I get near

I guess I'm doomed to spend a century
Locked inside a memory, of you
It's all I can do
Hang on till you're through
to the other side
