

Prague (Revive Me)

Dave Hause

Oh, bring me some more water, after that another glass of wine
No pretext for investments, borrowed eyes, borrowed world, borrowed time
I'm feeling jumpy like a salesman, waking up to trusty coffee I .V.
We're crammed in like so much cattle, so little time, so very much to see

Oh let it revive me, carry on carrying the fire
Oh let it revive me, finding peace for a little while
For a little while

The twilight of our youthful gaze
Books and bridges burned and records smashed
I'm fat and drunk and dumb and lazy, digging deep way past the petty cash
But there's not too many nights like these,
When you know you have it way too good
Naked bodies, twelve foot ceilings, laughing way more than I knew we could

Oh let it revive me, carry on carrying the fire
Oh let it revive me, finding peace for a little while
Oh let it revive me, carry on carrying the fire
For a little while
I got peace for a little while
