

Things Look So Different From The Sky

David Allan Coe

Things look so different from the sky
Everything looks smaller when you're up so high
Nothing seems important when you think that you might die
Things look so different from the sky

Up above the clouds looking down
Trying to keep your feet on solid ground
They say a man is not supposed to cry
Things look so different from the sky

Funny how your mind just rambles on
Knowing you're somewhere you don't belong
You'll forget your troubles when you fly
Things look so different from the sky

Up in the air you move so fast
Rushing to your future from your past
It used to be so hard to say goodbye
Things look so different from the sky

Heaven's only Heaven, Heaven knows
Heaven's just a place you pray to go
Sometimes called The Sweet By And By
Things look so different from the sky

Funny how your mind just rambles on
Knowing you're somewhere you don't belong
You'll forget your troubles when you fly
Things look so different from the sky

Things look so different from the sky
