David Cook

I, I'm never really awake
You take it all away until my will begins to break
You, you've got me in your sights
You're doing something right 'cause all I see is blue tonight

Yeah, we're lost in the dark and we're praying for light Reaching out for a heart where the beat never dies Yeah we're crossing the line between heaven and hell I'll never kiss and tell Now we're facing the flood and it's rising fast We keep holding our breath 'til we both collapse Lying still in the place right where our bodies fell But I'll never kiss and tell

I, I feel my pulse increase
Do anything you please as long as I can hear you breathe
We, we're losing all control
I thought we had it all but now your lips are turning cold