

Perspectives

David Dunn

I've been way up, way down
I've been king of the world, laid out
I know what it feels like feels like
Living my life in high and low spaces
All I really know is I don't really know
All I really know is I don't really know

You see it all like it's in slow motion
I see a drop and think I've seen the ocean
You hold the world but I can't hold my own emotions
Maybe I should trust You
You hold it all

My hopes up, guard down
Been through enough, to know now
Hindsight in the real life feels like
Sometimes flying and sometimes falling
All I really know is you're my only hope
All I really know is you're my only hope

You see it all like it's in slow motion
I see a drop and think I've seen the ocean
You hold the world but I can't hold my own emotions
Maybe I should trust You
You hold it all

We all have our own perspectives
It's a curse and it's a blessing
We all have our own perspectives
We have ours and You have heaven's

You see it all like it's in slow motion
I see a drop and think I've seen the ocean
You hold the world but I can't hold my own emotions
Maybe I should trust You

You see it all like it's in slow motion
I see a drop and think I've seen the ocean
You hold the world but I can't hold my own emotions
Maybe I should trust You
You hold it all