

This One's So Different

David Fonseca

Here's a song, it's the one, for the one
Sing it out, try it out, try it on
This one is so different
From the one that made you cry, cry, cry

You and I, we were gone, we were gone
Down and under the sea for too long
Well this one's so different
It won't hurt to try, try, try

An ocean filled my lungs
I banged away those drums
I prayed so you'd come back
And when you finally did
I was already rid, of the ghosts under the mat
I held you once before
And then I let you go
To lead an errant life
But you stuck on my mind
I kept you the whole time
A spark on a new moon night

Here's a song, it's the one, for the one
Sing it out, try it out, try it on
Well this one's so different
From the one that made you cry, cry, cry

You and I, we were gone, we were gone
Down and under the sea for too long
Well this one's so different
It won't hurt to try, try, try

All those things I won
I only came undone
Pride comes before the fall
Or maybe you still can
Just see me for who I am
And harbour this tired and broken song

Here's a song, it's the one, for the one
Sing it out, try it out, try it on
This one's so different
This one's so different
This one's so different
This one's so different
This one's so different
