

When It All Goes Away

David Hodges

The sun is lost today
With every single moment out of place
The wolves are on their way
And I can see through all you've made around you

So look me in the eyes
Know the situation's far from right
Unravel all the lies
That kept us feeling so alone

I hope someday
we remember what was lost here
For if love no longer waits for the broken
Where do we go when it all goes away?

To rearrange our lives
Fills us with so much to leave behind
And what we can't deny
Hurts the most when we admit
That love will never bring us home

I hope someday
we remember what was lost here
For if love no longer waits for the broken
Where do we go when it all goes away?

I will keep what we've started in my mind, love
Yet I can not help but be brokenhearted and undone now

But I hope that someday
we remember what was lost here
For if love no longer waits for the broken
Where do we go when it all goes away?

(We remember what was lost here
For if love no longer waits for the broken
Where do we go)

When it all goes away?