David Lee Murphy

Loco

Little Hula girls on the shot glass. All we need's a little salt and lime. We can plug in the hot pepper lights and pretend, That we're livin' on Key West time. I can run to the store an' get some charcoal, Buy a tikki torch an' fire up the grill. The whole town wants to know when I'm gonna grow up, But you know I never will.

Yeah, I might be a little bit loco, But it keeps me from losin' my mind. Oh, but half insane, that's ok, babe, A little bit crazy's all right.

There's nothin' wrong with a little excitement; No, it makes me forget about work. 'Cause I live by the rule that everything's cool, Just as long as nobody gets hurt. Hey, I feel like I'm on vacation. Honey, you say the word and we'll go. 'Cause you're getting to me in those cut off jeans, And that T-shirt from Sloppy Joe's.

Yeah, I might be a little bit loco, But it keeps me from losin' my mind. Oh, but half insane, that's ok, babe, A little bit crazy's all right.

Yeah, the deep end might be so close, Oh, that I'm hangin' on for dear life. Yeah, I might be a little bit loco, baby, But a little bit crazy's all right. That's right.

Yeah, I might be a little bit loco, But it keeps me from losin' my mind. Oh, but half insane, that's ok, babe, A little bit crazy's all right.

Yeah, the deep end might be so close, Oh, that I'm hangin' on for dear life. Yeah, I might be a little bit loco, baby, But a little bit crazy's all right.

Yeah, I might be a little bit loco, But it keeps me from losin' my mind. Well, I might be a little bit loco, baby, But, a little bit crazy's all right. You're crazy, baby.

Might be a little bit loco, baby, But, a little bit crazy's all right.