

The Gun

David Nail

I was just kid
Didn't know you leave
If you'd return
If you even wanted me

I was angry
I couldn't understand
It was hard to trust
Any man

I don't blame you for tonight
It wasn't you I was looking for
Wrong place I picked the fight
Instead walking out that door
I guess it was bound to come
I just happened to have the gun

I was trouble
That's what people say
I suppose god
Made us both that way

Guess you raised me right
Like you wanted to
Never once around
Still just like you

I don't blame you for tonight
It wasn't you I was looking for
Wrong place I picked the fight
Instead walking out that door
I guess it was bound to come
I just happened to have the gun

They say they can't believe
That it ever took this long
As I sit here in the backseat of a cop car
Seems just like a dream
But I know it's real
Now that you're gone, no more pain to kill

I don't blame you for tonight
It wasn't you I was looking for
Wrong place I picked the fight
Instead walking out that door
I guess it was bound to come
I just happened to have the gun
I just happened to have the gun
