

Numb

Dawn of Solace

I cannot feel the warmth of the flame
That flickers deep within
I cannot see the ashes fall
Grey dust on my skin

I cannot breathe
Air is too thick
With failures on my way
I cannot hear
The storm inside
The thunder that used to break the skies

The soil beneath my feet
Trembles and moves around me
And the sky is set alight
The world is in flames
Let the fires rise

I cannot feed the dying blaze
Ignite the spark again
I cannot heal or know how to repair
Broken bones or seize the pain

I cannot bleed
The blood in me
Turned cold and flows no more
I cannot keep
My word when I swore
That the darkness won't take me down

The soil beneath my feet
Trembles and moves around me
And the sky is set alight
The world is in flames
Let the fires rise

The soil beneath my feet
Trembles and moves around me
And the sky is set alight
The world is in flames
Let the fires rise