

Does God Cry?

Dax

Thank you, Ralph
Sometimes I ask myself is God cries
Trademark

I wonder if God cries, maybe His pain is the rain
Maybe the storm that we face means God is ashamed
Of the creatures that He made
And how lost we became in this world that He gave

I guess we'll never know
It's cool to wonder, right?
Dark times but we act like it's sunlight (Sunlight)
We use religion as a way to judge and crucify
Million different ones tryna fit us like a suit and tie (Tie)
Kids having gun fights from sundown to sunlight (Yeah)
We argue abortion and then we argue gun rights
All these opinions contradict on the both sides
Left, right, most votes, or the post with most likes
So many questions, not a lot of answers
Hundred billion dollars, still no cure for cancer
Screw conspiracies, I'm not one for the banter
But it's someone close to me so now it really matters
I used to smile at rainbows, but maybe that's God's frown
And the sun showers signify the feeling that He has
When somebody does good, turns around and does bad
Then tricks themselves out the good they already had
It's frustration (Frustration), and the wind is the push
In our back as we walk away from Satan
And maybe the thunder is the sound of God clappin'
When he's bangin' Dax music on his playlist

I wonder if God cries, maybe His pain is the rain
Maybe the storm that we face means God is ashamed
Of the creatures that He made
And how lost we became in this world that He gave

What would God do if He was in our shoes?
I bet He'd stay off social media and not watch news (That's right)
I bet He'd fix the Middle East and bring peace
To the current situation between Palestinians and Jews
That's a tall order
I bet God would probably have a mean cross-over
And find a lane different cultures could exist within the myth
That the color of our skin should separate us all instead of bring us closer
Fix racism, classism, fascism, sexism
Any -ism that even exists
'Cause to separate one in a world full of people
Where we all created equal, will never be it
I bet He wouldn't sleep (Wouldn't sleep)
If that's the only time He's chasin' his dreams
I bet he'd shoot every shot that He had and not pass
With the knowledge that devil's playin' on his team

I wonder if God cries, maybe His pain is the rain
Maybe the storm that we face means God is ashamed (Ashamed, ashamed)
Of the creatures that He made
And how lost we became in this world that He gave (He gave)

Or made?

Maybe God knew we would go insane (Go insane)

Maybe God gave pain so we'd appreciate the times

Without and when we had, it keep faith

Maybe God doesn't give strength, but give tough times

'Cause that's builds strength, if you know how a muscle's designed

And maybe God gives hate when we ask for love

So when we find it we can see it clear and open our eyes

And if He really does cry, I hope He knows

I try as my time flies by

And that when I hit that sky, we gon' bump this song

For eternity as time pass

I wonder if God cries, maybe His pain is the rain

Maybe the storm that we face means God is ashamed (Ashamed, ashamed)

Of the creatures that He made

And how lost we became in this world that He saved (He gave)

It's Dax

Amen