

Crowns

Dayglow

I never knew you too well
We never really spoke much
And the funny thing is now
We still don't really speak much
Though every day I see you
I don't think you wanna see me
'Cause I think you see right through
Everything about me

How the tables have turned around
And all the things I figure out
Everything is not what it seems
And the kids put on the crowns
And I just set 'em down
'Cause I never, ever wanted to be king

In the same hallway
I walk around a different way
I hear an old friend say
"Dude, what's up?"
"Dude, hey!"
I'm driving to the moon now
With that same old pal
I'm trying to figure out how
I think about you still now

How the tables have turned around
And all the things I figure out
Everything is not what it seems
And the kids put on the crowns
And I just set 'em down
'Cause I never, ever wanted to be king

How the tables have turned around
And all the things I figure out
Everything is not what it seems
And the kids put on the crowns
And I just set 'em down
'Cause I never, ever wanted to be king
