

How Do You Know?

Dayglow

It started out great at 7 or 8
Then we talked all night
So late then you got in my head
Can't believe what you said
It's so crazy, it's so true

You said, "you can't believe yourself
If no one else was there
And how can you know what's true
If nobody else cares?"

(Hm)

Like how do you know when a feeling changes?
How do you know it when the feeling is gone?
How do you know, so true the things that you do?
How do you know me, know me at all?
Like how do you know me (Da da da da da da)

When it got to be 4 you opened the door
Just to hear that music a little bit more
For the very first time you opened my eyes
It's so strange, it's so right
You said, "don't cry
The water's fine as long as you can swim
But you can't know what it's like
If you never jump in"

How do you know when a feeling changes?
How do you know it when that feeling is gone?
How do you know, so true the things that you do?
How do you know me, know me at all?
How do you know it

And all this time keeps ticking around me
I feel like I could tell you something again
But then

How do you know when a feeling changes?
How do you know it when the feeling is gone?
How do you know it's so true the things that you do?
Like how do you know me, know me at all?

And how do you know when a feeling changes?
How do you know it when that feeling is gone?
How do you know, so true the things that you do?
Like how do you know me, know me at all?
