

Moving Out

Dayglow

It might be time to let somebody in
It never gets good if you never begin

And I know that it's gone
And the feeling is not yet
You're still moving out
Oh, it's so hard to leave when you've got your feet on the ground
And it's always strange
In a room full of strangers
But you're growing to be Something you can't see right now

You're counting the days
'Til the seasons change, wanting to be the way that it was
But there is a magic, when you break that habit
Start looking at it with love, oh

It's what you're made of
You're still moving out?
Man, get up on your feet
Go see what your dream's all about!
'Cause man, it gets strange
When a friend is a stranger
But you're growing to be something you can't see right now

And no one is perfect
So let go of that burden that's
Got you working all night
Yeah, we're still learning
At that's alright, alright
