

Radio

Dayglow

I don't need too much
Just a stereo and some rock and roll on a real guitar
Now I get so bored, it's so monotonous
Remember when we thought it was all going to be so grand?
Well don't you understand

On the radio you just listen to music
You don't need some video
Just got to get yourself home
And all the world keeps spinning forever on out of my control

So what's coming on soon?
It's surely nothing new, 'cause I've heard this song so many times
But I kind of like it
It's this or the silence, there's no deciding every line
But maybe it'll play next time

On the radio you just listen to music
You don't need some video
Just got to get yourself home
And all the world keeps spinning forever on out of my control

So I turn down the music and stop the car
I started talking to myself about who we are
I mean we're all just people, people in motion
And we're always moving, but seems we're never going
'Cause there's just too much now out there
And I get so frozen
It seems to be there was a time before the box was open
And I could just relax 'cause everything was all we had

On the radio we'd just listen to music
You don't need some video
Just got to get yourself home
And all the world keeps spinning forever on out of my control
It's out of my control
