

Someone Else

Dayglow

I can't tell you quite why
These voices that aren't even mine
They keep singing to me songs that nobody knows

And I can't make it out
Yet it's so loud
Once you try to hear it you can't let it out

Just so you know it
I've got to get going

I've been feeling like someone else yet again
I've been waiting for this day to end but yet again it begins
It's like someone else is taking place of everything
While I'm waiting for myself to be myself for someone else
Just someone else to me

And you sang hallelujah, what happened to you?
Just a moment ago you laid low on the floor
But what good is that for anymore
It's like yesterday became some way through a door

And now just to be sure
I'm not looking back anymore

I've been feeling like someone else yet again
I've been just waiting for this day to end but yet again it begins
It's like someone else is taking place of everything
While I'm waiting for myself to view myself as someone else
Just someone else

Just so you know it
I've got to get going

'Cause I've been feeling like someone else yet again
I've been just waiting for this day to end but yet again it begins
It's like someone else
Is taking place of everything
While I'm waiting for myself to be myself for someone else Just someone else to me