

Hospital

Dead Infection

The grand corridor. A great number of operating-theatres people in white aprons. They give hope to the sentenced to suffer. One can hear a patient's groan from afar. Surgeons set his broken bone. An ambulance arr ives. It's an enamoured seventeen-years-old girl who found happiness in a razor's edge. Her arteries colour hospital sheets blood-red. There is a robbery victim next door who fights for his life. Hollowed eyes, torn out nails, torso b urned out with an oxacetylened welder so that one can see his heart beating. A ll that doesn't let him recover. Hospital smell drifts in the air. It emphasize s victim's suffering. Cases report notes everything down with details.