

A Conversation With Concrete

Dead!

I couldn't do it all again
I couldn't be a broken wall
I could not stand to take those blows
Well they would pay to watch me fall
I could not stand the static sound
Couldn't take the noise they made
I will never apologize for nothing
I will never be a slave

I'll still walk home in the rain
Convince myself these streets talk
I feel alive again
I will never stop
And if you come for me
And if you come for me
Then you'll see

When the sirens came around
The cards came out to play
You were bold and you were brash with things I'll never say
Well look how they appoint a king
Misplacing guilt for blame
They say they'll protest and still put crosses through their name

I'll still walk home in the rain
Convince myself these streets talk
I feel alive again
I will never stop
And if you come for me
And if you come for me
Then you'll see

It's okay it's okay
He's on the phone
He said why couldn't you just leave this alone?
Old wounds heal slow but you'll never know
Old wounds heal slow but you'll never know

It's okay it's okay
He's on the phone
He said why couldn't you leave this alone?
Old wounds heal slow but you'll never know
Old wounds heal slow but you'll never know

I'll still walk home in the rain
Convince myself these streets talk
I feel alive again
I will never stop
And if you come for me
And if you come for me
Then you'll see

It's okay it's okay
He's on the phone
He said why couldn't you leave this alone?
Old wounds heal slow but you'll never know
Old wounds heal slow but you'll never know

(I think I will do all of this again and then)
It's okay, it's okay
He's on the phone
He said why couldn't you leave this alone?
