

Nevermind

Deaf Havana

I was living out of a box
You were reliving the years you missed out on
I don't believe in god
So I ain't got a shot at redemption
And I fell out of love again
Not with you but with living in general
I lost a lot of friends, never mind

'Cause I've been on a losing streak
My hearts made of stone and I can't trust my own damn feet
To show me the right way home
It's been a hell of a year
I'm struggling to see what the next one looks like
Without you here, my love
I never enough...

I was living in a haze
Trying to make strangers feel familiar
But I needed to get away
Leave it all behind
I travelled miles, travelled miles
To end up sleeping on your floor
Now I'm not sleeping well at all, anymore

'Cause I've been on a losing streak
My hearts made of stone and I can't trust my own damn feet
To show me the right way home
It's been a hell of a year
I'm struggling to see what the next one looks like
Without you here, my love

And every time I fall asleep
I see you in my dreams but then you're gone again
Yeah, you're gone again
I can't seem to shake you off
You're everything to me just like you've always been Like you've always been
And even if I fall asleep for a second
I see you
I see you
I see you

'Cause I've been on a losing streak
My hearts made of stone and I can't trust my own damn feet
To show me the right way home
It's been a hell of a year
I'm struggling to see what the next one looks like
Without you here, my love

Without you here
Without you here
Without you here
And I will try to be alright
