

Doberman

Deafheaven

All decline I seeded from my fright
Each dim year giving less to the light
Suddenly present now

All hail now the panopticon
See all around me
All of my failure
Trapped under this dominion
Shaking into seizure

All hail now the panopticon
See all around me
All of my failure
Trapped under this dominion
Shaking into seizure now

A perverse stirring
I fell out of rhythm
Sadness left me uneven
A masking confusion

Across the vast wilds of time
I laid the grain down the coastline
Ah, I wanted the Garden of Eden
But fed my misgivings
I wrestled with strength just like you
I ate from the apple of my ruse
And stared into the mirror of my truth
All the time death as my muse

All hail now the panopticon
See all around me
All of my failure
Trapped under this dominion
Shaking into seizure now

Naked and eyeless
My iris has only black views (Views, views)
All my misguidance
Hiding as torment grew (Grew, grew)
Alone on an island knowing the exits too

I gave into silence
Knowing the exits too
Facing the violence
I wrestled with death just like you

In this panopticon
I sought death in this panopticon
Suddenly present now
Suddenly present now
Suddenly present now
