We'll forget this house
Because we have become like calloused hearts and we'll divide
Darkness always comes around
Treating us as strangers in convincing disguise
If you just shut your eyes

What is the side effect?

If we both forget

Like we were never lovers

I will wait years for you

If you want me to

And there will be no other

The words are forced and hollow We're taking anything we can and wasting all our time There isn't any time

What is the side effect?

If we both forget

Like we were never lovers

I will wait years for you

If you want me to

And there will be no other

Daylight only shines down
It lingers in the evening to chase shadows on the ground
They're getting longer now

What is the side effect?

If we both forget

Like we were never lovers

I will wait years for you

If you want me to

And there will be no other
