

We Sing, They Die

Death By Stereo

The world is great, things are fine

This is catastrophe

(We) We're in a complicated place and time

But it's really simple if you're not fucking blind

Immune to the control and America's fourth reich

Check out this shiny rock, you're doing just fine

(I) I'll trade your life for these distractions

Profiteering off your own inactions

Hate culture is hate couture

It's customized thought torture

The world is great, things are fine

We're all dying just in time

The rich will make their great escape

The rest of us just stay awake

Wait for the chance, slit the throat

Stop the power at its source

They create the great divide

I'll smash this place from inside

I sing

You die

And we sing

They die

(Wait) We got a chance to stop the fools

Kill the bastards, end their rules

Before our blood spills, stop the farce

Plug the leak, the vampires starve

As we break down this wall

Hear us rage, hear us call

We'll all laugh maniacally

When you open your eyes, man, you'll see

The world is great, things are fine

We're all dying just in time

The rich will make their great escape

The rest of us just stay awake

Wait for the chance to slit the throat

Stop the power at its source

They create the great divide

I'll smash this place from the inside

I sing

You die

All together now, sing

They die

If I looked through your eyes

I'd show you your demise

It's too late to save you

A coward through and through

Sense the fear and I know why

Just accept it's time to die

It's too late to save you

It's too late to save you

You
It's too late to say no
We'll never let it go
Destroy you round for round
We'll watch you spiral down

We'll take you down
Down, we'll take you down

We, we'll take you down
We, we'll take you down
We, we'll take you down
Down, well, are you down?
Down, well, are you down?
Well, are you down?

We're all dying just in time