

The Promise

Deborah Cox

Life is so unpredictable
People come, people go
Is there anything that's for sure?
You don't know, I don't know

In a world where we don't believe
In fairy tales, they don't come true
It's good in your time of need
That you've got something to hold on to

I can't promise the moon
I might just sing out a tune
But I will always be true
This is my promise to you
This is my promise to you

I'll be the light that shines through your darkest days
The one true voice that you won't escape
When you're lost I'll be that familiar face
This is my promise to you
This is my promise to you

What becomes of the broken heart?
Where does it go? Where does it go?
Does it heal or just fall apart
You don't know, I don't know

You can be afraid to try
When you fall you can get up again
All that you need to know is that
You're not alone, I'll be your friend

I can't promise the moon
I might just sing out a tune
But I will always be true
This is my promise to you
Oh, this is my promise to you

I'll be the light that shines through your darkest day
The one true voice that you won't escape
When you're lost I'll be that familiar face
This is my promise to you
This is my promise to you

I'll be the sweet remembrance of days gone by
A song that comforts you when you cry
Till the end I'll be by your side
This is my promise to you
This is my promise to you

I don't know what else to do
This is my promise to you