

Carrickfergus

Declan Galbraith

I wish I was in Carrickfergus where she is waiting, my rainbow's end I would swim over the deepest ocean just to see her sweet smile again but the sea is wide and I cannot get over nor have I the wings to fly I wish I knew a friendly boatman to ferry me back to my sweetheart's side

I close my eyes and I remember the fields of green and flowers gold where we would walk in sunlit meadows how my heart's longing to be back home

but the sea is wide and I cannot get over
so I'll just dream of Carrickfergus and the day I said goodbye now and forever my love and I

and the day I said goodbye
now and forever my love and I.
