

Father's Son

Declan J Donovan

She said, "Don't play that guitar
It only breaks my heart when you sing
You sound just like him
You talk and walk the same
And when I look at your face I see him
It's the same kinda feeling"

Even though I'm not trying to be anything like him
It's all in me

'Cause who says that the apple don't fall
Too far, too far
Sometimes it's hard to understand
But show me the boy, you see the man
Yeah, who says that the apple don't fall
Too far, too far
I know that I'm not the only one
'Cause we all, we all become our father's sons

And so history repeats
There's a part of him in me
That I notice
And that's where the ghost is
Saying I'm gonna make the same mistakes
And I'm gonna walk the path he made
All of the good, the bad, it's all inside
There's nothing I can change

And I'm really not trying to be anything like him
It's all in me

'Cause who says that the apple don't fall
Too far, too far
Sometimes it's hard to understand
But show me the boy, you see the man
Well, who says that the apple don't fall
Too far, too far
I know that I'm not the only one
'Cause we all, we all become our father's son

Yeah, we all, yeah, we all
Yeah, we all, we all, we all
Become our father's sons

Yeah, we all, yeah, we all
Yeah, we all, we all, we all
Become our father's son

Who says that the apple don't fall
Too far, too far
I know that I'm not the only one
'Cause we all, we all become our father's sons
