

Meant To Be

Defences

Can you hear it calling?
Something's in the air
Begging for answers
But no one is there

Out of sight
So quick to push aside
Out of mind
And we are running right
Out of time, oh we are
Kings and queens of procrastination

Why don't you practice what you preach?
Become who you were meant to be?

If we want to erase the pain
Rebuild and start again
Open your eyes, and try to find
A new perspective, a new light

I know it's easier said than done
Like we're fighting a war already won
But if we all went against the grain
The grain would change, the grain would change

Pretend that it's not there
But we see it everywhere
Our home is suffering
From all we've taken
I feel it sinking in
Into my skin again
I need to break away
We need to make a change

Why don't you practice what you preach?
Become who you were meant to be?
While you still can

If we want to erase the pain
Erase the pain
Rebuild and start again
Start again
Open your eyes, and try to find
A new perspective, a new light

Why can't I follow my own advice
When push comes to shove?
I can care for you
Always be there for you
When I'm alone it's me who isn't alright

We need to rebuild and start again
Rebuild and start again

When we've taken all we can take
Nothing left to bend so we start to break
And we try to fix what can't be saved

Can we draw the line before it's too late?

Before it's too late

If we want to erase the pain
Erase the pain
Start again

If we want to erase the pain
Erase the pain
Start again

Rebuild and start again
Rebuild and start again

If we want to erase the pain
Rebuild and start again
If we want to erase the pain
Rebuild and start again

If we want to erase the pain
Rebuild and start again
If we want to erase the pain
