

Affect Change

Defiance

if you don't vote you can't complain fuck that line of shit because it won't change any thing other than superficially i'm not willing to accept what rights and change some they are not theirs to fucking give and anything given can be taken away this whole system needs to be burned to the ground and it's not going to happen from working within voting is just a feeling of affecting change it provides answers but to all of the wrong questions it gives us a fals sence of accomplishment and diverts energy from real issues state sanctioned change is nothing more than double speak when it promises to give , to who have been taken from the most your fooling yourself if you believe you will recieve anything substantial in return thinking that voting gives you a voice is a sad excuse for real action
