

Lock Jaw

Defiance

Have you ever felt a puncture thru the skin
From a piece of metal that is rusty, dull and thin?
And the pain it brings you as it plunges deep within
Your tears have not yet started, but soon they will begin

I don't have to warn you
About the feelings it will bring
But when you step down on it
Your ears will start to ring
So always keep one eye looking on the ground
You will see there's danger all around
On the ground, you'll be screaming
In your veins, the poison's seeping
Lockjaw's coming, feel it creeping
Finally realize that you're bleeding

You feel the lockjaw
Feel the lockjaw
Can you feel the lockjaw?

Feel the lockjaw

Now you're not feeling well
'Cause lockjaw it's a living hell
Can you fight the pain within
As it cuts up in your skin

You feel the lockjaw
Feel the lockjaw
Can you feel the lockjaw?
Feel the lockjaw

Didn't see it lying there
With it's point up in the air
Can you bear to pull it out
Take the pain with a shout
For the dangers that lurk above the ground

Now you're not feeling well
'Cause lockjaw it's a living hell
Can you fight the pain within
As it's stuck up in your skin

You feel the lockjaw
Feel the lockjaw
Can you feel the lockjaw?
Feel the lockjaw