

I Think I Love You

Del Shannon

I know she's the prettiest girl I've ever seen,
Just like seeing someone on a movie screen,
She's rich and she lives in high society,
I keep saying 'no, that's not the life for me',

She says she loves me and her life is filled with pain,
I want no part of it,
But I'd better explain,

I think I love you,
I think I love you,
I think I love you,
Love you,

She took me home to see her Father,
Lately she says she hasn't seen her Mother,
Living behind a fence so high no one can see,
I keep saying 'no, that ain't the life for me',

She says she loves me and her Father can give me many things,
She doesn't understand,
They're just immaterial things,

I think I love you,
I think I love you,
I think I love you,
Love you,

It would be easy to fall into the trap,
If she could only see that's not where it's at,

But I think I love you,
I think I love you,
I think I love you,
Love you.
