

Divided

Delight

Our world is divided start everything over our happiness like two hands joined for a prayer an old faded picture like stale bread
our world is divided
somebody once so close suddenly a total stranger start everything over make the best of bad times leave my mind
sleepless nights in an empty house now whisper says the echo make sure that all is gone
our world is divided
somebody once so close suddenly a total stranger
start everything over make the best of bad times
leave my mind
through your human reason you will never see unity between what is beginning and what soon will not be I still can't understand how
somebody once so close suddenly a total stranger
start everything over make the best of bad times
leave my mind